

JOHNNY CHACE, THE FACE

"I've talked my way out of a lot of tight spots. This one will be no different."

When you're rich and good-looking, people hand you things on a silver platter. You get used to a certain lifestyle. So when you lost everything (due to a simple youthful indiscretion), what did you do? Did you accept your lot and become a laborer or a scribe and live a life of drudgery? No! You became... whatever struck your fancy at the moment: a diamond mine heir, a cult leader, an admiral, a visiting diplomat. Along the way you found lots of people who were eager to give you things, but that's not your fault, is it?

What you're in for: Impersonating a House Alvaro noble and receiving state secrets

Your plea: "Your lordship, what we have here is a simple case of mistaken identity. My twin brother, Johnny Chace..."

De Caserta's Notes: "People like him. Gods help me, I like him."

Title: Smooth Talker

"Hey, hey, we're all friends here."

Prerequisite: Your team obtained an interest of 5 in a negotiation without once telling the truth.

Effect: The first time each session that you win over a hostile NPC or turn a combat into a negotiation, you gain a hero token. You gain an edge on tests made to lie or to disguise yourself.

Complication: I Don't Know These People

Even while you're fighting for your life, you give the impression of being a harmless bystander. When a creature who has $I < 1$ targets you with a damage-dealing ability with a single target, the ability instead targets one of your allies of the creature's choice, provided one is in range.
